

Plagiarism check-list

1. Putting a full bibliography but omitting citation in the text is:

Good practice     Bad practice     Plagiarism

2. Writing an essay on a topic in without doing any reading or putting any sources in the text is:

Good practice     Bad practice     Plagiarism

3. Copying a classmate's essay is:

Good practice     Bad practice     Plagiarism

4. Using citation and quotation marks around other authors' words, and then using some more text from the same source nearby in your text, without citation or quotation marks is:

Good practice     Bad practice     Plagiarism

5. Writing all your assignment in the hours just before the deadline is:

Good practice     Bad practice     Plagiarism

6. Reading some sources, making notes on them, then writing up the ideas with citation is:

Good practice     Bad practice     Plagiarism

7. Submitting the same assignment that you have already submitted for another module is:

Good practice     Bad practice     Plagiarism

8. Putting some points of general knowledge in your text without citation is:

Good practice     Bad practice     Plagiarism

9. Copying some sentences from another author, changing every fourth word, and putting citation at the end is:

Good practice     Bad practice     Plagiarism

10. Using one source, which you cite, for most of your ideas is:

Good practice     Bad practice     Plagiarism

11. Using standard academic phrases (such as "many studies have shown...") which you have found in academic articles, without citation in your text is:

Good practice     Bad practice     Plagiarism

12. Copying and pasting text from websites without citation is:

Good practice     Bad practice     Plagiarism

13. Putting citation in your text, but not putting all the cited references in your bibliography is:

Good practice     Bad practice     Plagiarism

14. Reading several sources on your topic, then writing up the ideas from them without citation is:

Good practice     Bad practice     Plagiarism

15. Writing your own ideas on a topic then making up the names of references to put next to them is:

Good practice     Bad practice     Plagiarism

16. Using different systems of referencing (eg Harvard and APA) for different parts of your text is:

Good practice     Bad practice     Plagiarism

17. Making some notes from ideas in a source and using them in your text but forgetting to put the references is:

Good practice     Bad practice     Plagiarism

18. Writing your essay largely copied from the text of a model essay that you find on the internet is:

Good practice     Bad practice     Plagiarism

19. Copying some words, putting them in quotation marks, and writing the author, year and page number afterwards is:

Good practice     Bad practice     Plagiarism

20. Constructing a paragraph from quotations, with citation after each, and a few words of your own is:

Good practice     Bad practice     Plagiarism

.....

Davis, M. (2012). Plagiarism Test. Retrieved, May 6, 2012 from, cw.routledge.com/textbooks/bailey/

